ROBERT 'DOC' MIRELSON NAMED DEPUTY CHIEF FOR CONSUMER AFFAIRS AT FCC CONSUMER AND GOVERNMENTAL AFFAIRS BUREAU

Washington, DC – Robert “Doc” Mirelson has been named Deputy Chief of the Consumer and Governmental Affairs Bureau (CGB). His area of responsibility will be consumer outreach.

Mirelson joins CGB from his position as Associate with Booz Allen Hamilton, an international defense, intelligence and business consulting firm. As a member of the Booz Allen National Security Team, he developed public information policies and managed public affairs, outreach, historical, training, education, and communications projects for government and private sector clients including the National Imagery & Mapping Agency, the Department of Defense, and the Internal Revenue Service.

K. Dane Snowden, Chief of CGB, said, “We are delighted to have Doc joining us. His arrival completes the bureau’s top management team. He brings an enormous amount of experience that will serve consumers well as we implement our pro-active, strategic programs to inform consumers and solicit their input on matters important to this Commission.”

Prior to his service as a consultant, Mirelson was a Colonel in the U.S. Army, and a senior public affairs officer. He has extensive communications experience in the American Forces Information Service, where he commanded the American Forces Korea Network, and he served as publisher of the European edition of the Stars & Stripes newspaper. He served as the senior U.S. Army and Department of Defense spokesman in Europe during the most tumultuous period of history since World War II. He concluded his 29-year military career as the Director of Public Affairs for the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

He is a graduate of Florida Southern College and has a Master’s Degree in Communications from the University of Florida.
